Greetings,

I wish to express my view that the Microsoft Corporation is right and the U.S. government is wrong in its Antitrust case.

It is my opinion that the U.S. government should stop wasting my tax dollars to persecute Microsoft's alleged "Antitrust" violation. Antitrust is just a means for envious politicians to cut down successful businesses that supply the public with goods that are in popular demand. Antitrust is a throwback to a fabian socialistic era that sacrificed the demands of the consumers to the demands of the politicians. Any settlement terms are a compromise of the right to the wrong. That is if you believe that a free market is right... If I were Bill Gates, I would "settle" this case by offering to close down Microsoft, instead of prostrating myself to the incompetent. Sincerely,

Jeff Hatfield
